The Borzoi

In the possession of Mr. and Mrs. David Ristau, of the Warren-Kinzua road, are three Borzoi, now commonly known as the Russian Wolf Hounds. Two of the animals, Nina (left), four years old, and Silver (right), sixteen months old, are pictured here. The third, Komar, sired Silver and nine other of the rangy pups.

The Borzoi were originally hunting dogs from Russia, but are now primarily used as show dogs and can be found in Germany, England, France, the United States, although the number in the states is very small, and most other parts of the world. The nine others of Komar's litter have been sold by the Ristaus to persons in Georgia, Michigan, Connecticut, New York, and other states in the U.S.

Nina and Silver have attracted the attention of two distinguished dog enthusiasts, one an artist from the New England states and the second a national dog show judge. The two are presently in Philadelphia, working on the incorporation of the Borzoi Club of America which now is divided into four sections of the country. They plan to visit Mr. and Mrs. Ristau in the very near future to ascertain their feelings on the entering of their dogs in shows in the nation. To date the Warren family has had the dogs displayed only at small shows in the area.

The thin-faced beauties are a light tan in color, although Komar is white with black markings. The Borzoi make excellent watchdogs, but as a rule they are very gentle around children. Silver stands 32 inches high at the shoulder, and Mr. Ristau stated that from 32 to 34 inches was average for a full grown wolfhound.

Quite a difference in temperaments was evident as Silver was very uncooperative in posing for the picture, but Nina, acting like the distinguished lady that she is, stood very still, patiently waiting for the energetic pup to pose with her for the camera.

Isotope Department Nearing Completion

The radioactive isotope department of Warren General Hospital may be ready about Nov. 1, it was learned at the monthly meeting of the board last evening. Work on the new department is moving along well in the room located in the basement of the Jefferson Pavilion. Half the cost is being paid by the Cancer Society.

Use of the hospital continues to increase. During August 456 adults were admitted, and there were 3,643 patient days, contrasted with the 428 and 3,046 of August 1959. The daily average census was 128, a large jump over the 111.4 of last year. Percentage of occupation was up ten per cent.

The board learned that the new furniture was shipped Monday and will be here soon. This includes modern beds, bed tables and cabinets. The old furniture is being refurbished by DeLuxe Metal at no cost to the hospital.

Joseph Williamson, administrator, reported on the meeting of the hospital association which was held in St. Marys, Tuesday. John F. Worman, an attorney and executive director of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania, explained legislation affecting the operation of hospitals. Mr. Williamson also spoke and urged directors to acquaint legislators with hospital problems to encourage beneficial Harrisburg action.

OBSERVATIONS

By Bob Walsh

FINANCIAL ASPECTS OF A MERGED SCHOOL DISTRICT

We believe that the residents in the Warren area are being handed a distorted financial impression of school operation under the proposed merger system. To imply that because of a merger your tax bill will jump to 26 mills is absolutely false!

We believe that many residents of the area, following statements made at a meeting of the jointure's boards and a few citizens, and through a few unfortunate press reports, now are under the illusion that a merger will be a costly type of school district.

The fact is that your school costs are going up no matter what type of district is utilized. If the jointure is continued the costs will rise and there will be less help from the state. If a merger is adopted the expenses also will increase despite the state's additional help.

The measure which we should be using is that which will determine what is best for the young people whose education is our responsibility. The shifting of a mill in one direction or the other is a trifling consideration compared with the value of a well rounded school system.

As our schools operate today there are many young people denied a complete education and there is little doubt that an enlightened public in the future will demand improvements that will correct this situation. But why wait for the future when to act now offers double value, early improvement of our system and additional financial help from the state?

* FINANCIAL ESTIMATES

This editor claims that we could operate today in the blue if the nine districts that comprise the Warren area jointure were combined in a merged district and if the millage were 19. That is a single mill increase in Warren, which is a mighty small price for a more efficient operation.

In most of the other districts it is a large decrease, as Elk and Conewango township residents will assure you. Little Watson would have the largest change because of its 5.5 millage. But if it doesn't like the idea there is nothing to prevent it from voting against the merger and to continue to operate as a jointure school, which means less help from the state. You have to make a choice.

School officials have prepared a group of figures in an effort to provide the public with an estimate of comparative costs. As we operate today the combined receipts this year should be about $2,296,621. Of this amount $1,027,731 comes from local taxes and $1,147,439 is from the state. The difference if you are using a pencil is the beginning balance of $121,451.

Over half our money comes from the state.

If we were operating this year as a merged district and were using a millage of 18 our local receipts would be $979,006. Our payments from the state would be $1,209,611. Adding the beginning balance we would have a total of $2,310,068.

Our expenses this year total $2,310,816. Under a merger, due to increased services to the student body the total would be $2,344,878. An increase of about $43,000.

With our estimated income of $2,310,068 we would need about $34,000. Inasmuch as a mill apparently is worth about $45,573 in the area as a whole, a 19-mill rate would more than cover us.

That is today. How about tomorrow?

THE FUTURE

There is little doubt that education is going to cost us more in the future than it does today. Considering the taxes available on the local level there also is little doubt in our mind that the state must do the collecting and the paying.

We can return to little red school house thinking and refuse help for improvements, but we will pay the cost whether or not we benefit. State taxes go on as an assist to the progressive. If we do not choose to progress we will pay the bill without the advantages.

With this in mind it is obvious to us that the most efficient type of organization will serve our purpose much better in the future, and we would not be surprised if some day the state even will legislate the change and make it mandatory.

It seems wise to beat evolution and benefit by the financial inducement now dangled before us by the state in the form of an additional $80,000 a year, away when all districts in the state simplify their organizations. In fact, we are confident that state help will increase.

Tax structure and politics will assure centralized help in the future. No party would remain long in office if it reduced the school dollar from Harrisburg, and the money is not available through our present form of local taxes.

Those who speak of mills up to heights of 26 for the entire district are referring to conditions which may prevail no matter whether we are in jointure or merger form. New schools will be built. Teaching salaries will increase. Both are needed. But do not confuse them with or blame them on the merger proposal.

This is important. The public should not have increased taxes associated with a merger school district. The increases will come in any case. The question before us will be, what is the most efficient method of spending it. We contend, and all the major corporations in the native will agree, that a small, representative board with the whole area as its responsibility and unhampered by provincial thinking and 1850-lines on the map, will be more efficient than the present awkward, rambling arrangement.

Today, in contrast, on America's doorstep, so to say, Khrushchev is able to give his own party, and to give it against the will of the State Department and the President of the United States. Furthermore, this is not the sort of party that smarty gave.

COUNTING OUR LOSSES

By Joseph Alsop

NEW YORK

It is a sobering spectacle, this United Nations General Assembly session. It looks like an international zoo, but it also speaks volumes about what has happened to the American and Western position in the world in the past seven-and-a-half years.

Josef V. Stalin died only a couple of months after President Eisenhower took office. But Stalin, whose method was terror, had terrified the whole world and was on speaking terms with almost no one. So it is perhaps more revealing to choose a somewhat later date — February 8, 1955, for example, when the installation of the new, brightly smiling leading team of Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita S. Khrushchev brought Khrushchev to his first pinnacle of supreme power.

On that date, if you care to think back, Khrushchev might have joined his own United Nations delegation in New York if he chose. And he might also have secured the companionship of Poland's sinister Beirut, Hungary's slimy and blood-stained Rakosi, and the other satellite bosses of the period.

But Khrushchev could have done handstands, offered free Aswan dams, sent diplomatic task forces, and promised special tours to the other side of the moon without bringing to the U. N. a single national leader of any consequence from any country beyond the military borders of the Soviet empire. With many bribes and much flattery he might just possibly have persuaded the bemused Sukarno to come along from Indonesia; but even this inconsequential success would have been unlikely.

Today, in contrast, on America's doorstep, so to say, Khrushchev is able to give his own party, and to give it against the will of the State Department and the President of the United States. Furthermore, this is not the sort of party that smarty gave.

Everyone is coming, including even President Eisenhower; and everyone is coming precisely because American and Western influence has declined and Soviet influence has intruded in just about every strategically significant area of the globe.

Not all the members of the zoo-like assemblage of chiefs of state and national bosses have followed Khrushchev to the U. N. by his direct invitation. Among the professional neutrals, for example, he used Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser as his lever. Nasser, the human symbol of Soviet was persuaded to come along by the Soviet Ambassador to Cairo. Nasser in turn persuaded Yugoslavia's Tito, and Tito and Nasser together persuaded Jawaharlal Nehru.

In the case of Cuba's Fidel Castro, of course, the merest telephone call sufficed. The same held true for Guinea's Sékou Touré, who has taken a far more undisguised pro-Communist line than Castro in the heart of Africa. Ghana's Kwame Nkrumah is reported to have decided to join the party, partly for the party itself, partly to please Khrushchev, and partly because of the examples set by others. Several more of the national leaders here assembled are in the Nkrumah category.

There are simple reasons why Khrushchev has thus been able to organize his own party of chiefs of state and heads of government on America's doorstep, despite the American government's best efforts to turn it into the kind of party smarty gave. In South America, to begin with, there is not only Castro; there are at least six other national situations which may explode at any moment into Castro-like governments.

In Southeast Asia, again, the tiny, obscure but geographically crucial nation of Laos has just been flagrantly invaded, for the second time, by Laotian Communist and Vietnamese units trained and organized by Khrushchev's satellites in North Vietnam. This obscure invasion in jungle territory, which failed when it was tried a year ago, may well succeed this time because of internal divisions in Laos. If it succeeds, Cambodia and South Vietnam will be next on the list.

In Africa, yet again, the Soviet agent, Patrice Lumumba, has suffered a setback, and the massive Communist beachhead in the Congo has been at least temporarily liquidated. But in that chaotic and unhappy country, another turn of the wheel is likely at any time. Meanwhile, it is just as important to note that the two most outstanding Africa leaders, the Arab chief, Nasser of Egypt, and the biggest single Negro figure, Nkrumah of Ghana, vigorously supported the Soviet agent, Lumumba, at least until the recent Congo coup d'état.

With the sole exception of Australia-New Zealand, there is not a single area on the face of the globe where the decline of American influence and the rise of Soviet influence cannot be clearly observed. Even in Western Europe, the Soviets have openly begun to attack the freedom of West Berlin by carefully calculated salami tactics. The aim is clear. This country has no more sacred trust. Yet the American and Western response to the attack on Berlin has thus far been feeble and indecisive.

If anyone doubts the reality of the decline we have experienced, let him look at the world, and then look at this U. N. session.

Democrats Show Great Restraint

By Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON. -- With the temptation strong as it must be to shout, "Who lost Cuba to the Communists?" the Democrats have thus far in the campaign shown admirable restraint. The contrast with 1952 is startling -- when most Republicans from General Eisenhower and Richard Nixon on down were shouting, "Who lost China" and the Jeners and the McCarthys were trumpeting, "Twenty years of treason."

It is, of course, early and when the heat is turned up in the last weeks the conspicuous targets of Cuba and the other failures in the foreign field may prove irresistible. But the restraint shown so far is all on the plus side, if not for the Democrats certainly for the nation as a whole.

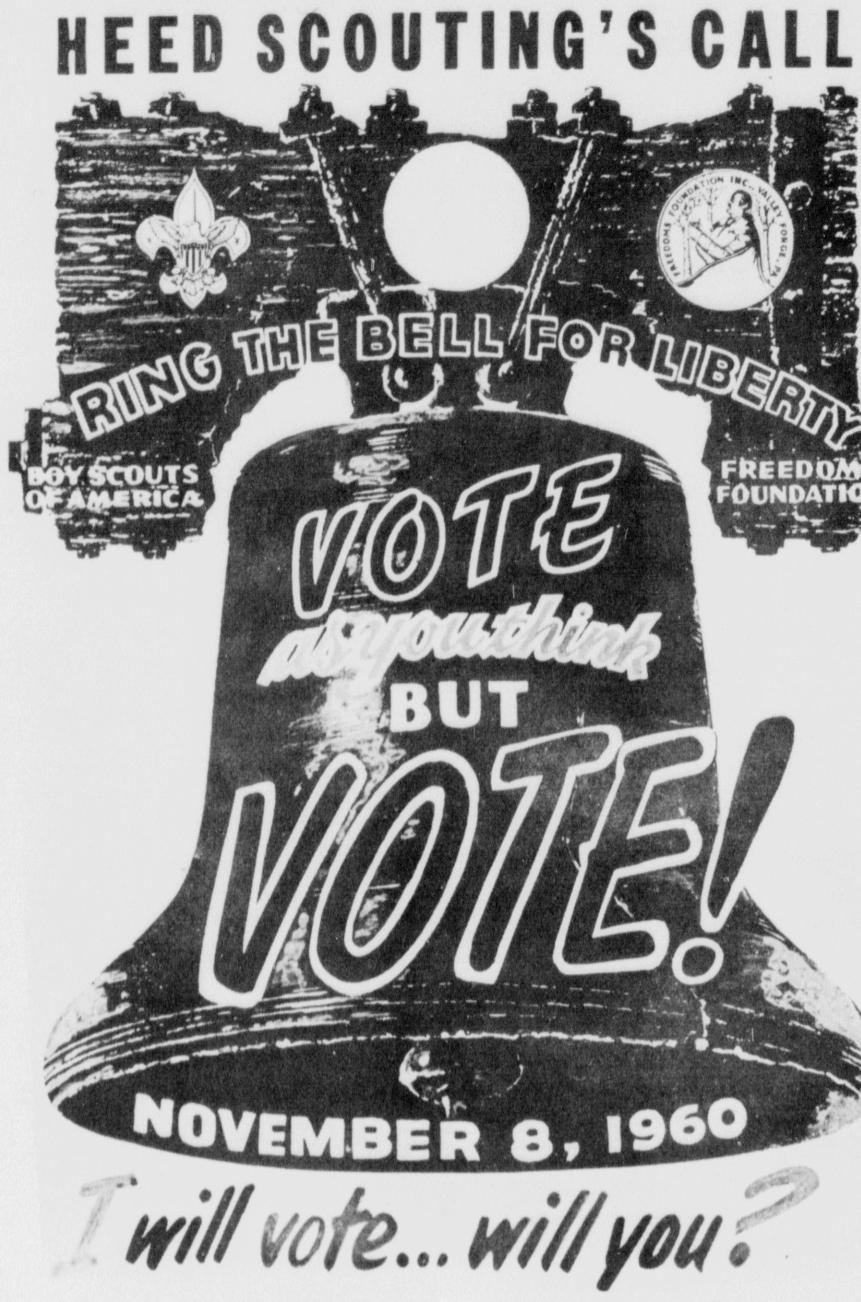

A minor exception is the effort of Senators James Eastland of Mississippi and Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut, Democrats, to use the power of the Senate internal security subcommittee to level a McCarthyist type of attack at the State Department. They charged that certain unnamed officials in the department were responsible for Fidel Castro's coming to power. These allegations were based on the testimony of two political ambassadors who had qualified for the post in Havana by contributing generously to the Republican campaign chest.

A symptom of the changed times was the way in which this damp squib sputtered out. Secretary of State Christian Herter said he was outraged at charges that were scarcely worthy of denial. With a little more frankness he might have added that the real cause for blame was in sending to a sensitive spot in the troubled Caribbean two fat-cat ambassadors who could not possibly be expected to understand the Batista dictatorship and the once-popular revolution that over-threw it.

But the Eastland-Dodd alliance is not to be laughed off. They have made it their business to try to compel the Nobel Prize winning scientist, Linus Pauling, to turn over to them the names of other scientists who helped circulate petitions calling for an end of nuclear testing. Pauling has taken the issue to the courts and will carry it to the Supreme Court itself.

As he is one of the most distinguished scientists in the world, his fellow scientists both here at home and elsewhere around the globe have begun to protest indignantly at what seems to them an effort to persecute him for his political views. If the courts, for legal reasons having little to do with the facts in the case, deny his request to enjoin the Internal Security Committee, Pauling is very likely to go to jail. This is an advertisement that can do far more harm to America in the uncommitted nations and even in Western Europe than all the Communist propaganda that Moscow can put out.

The question of suspension of nuclear tests with proper inspection and control is an enormously complicated one and, conceivably too, in making himself one of the principal propagandists for resuming testing, regardless of the determination of the Eisenhower Administration to persist in exploring every possibility for an agreement, Dodd has also gone too far.

Get-Out-The-Vote Project

Governor Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut and John Bailey, the Democratic chairman of that state, are responsible for putting Dodd in the Senate. As two of the principal backers and advisers of Senator Kennedy this must give them pause. A recent New York Times survey of Negro voters in Harlem showed one source of disaffection with the Democratic party was the power in Congress of Southern extremists such as Eastland. The alliance of Eastland and Dodd, the extreme right of North and South, will hardly be calculated to reassure them.

It is not that questions of foreign policy can be kept out of the campaign. Vice-President Nixon may be telling Americans just what they want to hear -- that the United States is the biggest, the bravest, the boldest, the best in everything. But he can scarcely, being a realist himself, expect to silence Senator Kennedy by accusing him of peddling gloom and doom.

The voter is entitled to a discussion of the mistakes in foreign policy as seen by the opposition. And this on broad and general lines Kennedy is undertaking to do. That is not, as he insists, downgrading America. Presumably at a later date he will come up with the specifics on what he believes must be done to reverse the trend that he charges is running against this country.

But discussion is one thing and the wild Communist-baiting the Republicans indulged in eight years ago is quite another. If under the Truman Administration two trusted employees of the National Security Agency had escaped the country and defected publicly in Moscow, one can imagine the screams of outrage that would have gone up. Yet, so far as this reporter has observed, no highly placed Democrat has taken up this cry over what in so huge a security-intelligence apparatus must be accounted a tragic and perhaps a stupid accident. It is a time for sobriety and maturity and, fortunately, the worst fevers of that other era seem to have subsided.

The circulation of these dailies as they favor each candidate, or stand on their own, is as follows: The papers supporting Nixon have 10,680,988 readers. The Kennedy papers number 2,372,160 readers. The independents and the undecided represent 9,619,942 subscribers.

In pivotal states such as New York and California the figures are even more interesting. Nixon has 25 papers to Kennedy's 3 in New York. He has 51 to Kennedy's 11 in California. In Pennsylvania the Republicans own 33 editors in contrast to the one paper supporting Kennedy.

Kennedy's biggest support from the press is in Texas where he has 18 editors back of him to Nixon's 8. Seventeen are undecided there.

In actual numbers 125 have declared for Kennedy, 433 for Nixon, and 243 are in the neither-way column. It is not likely that the papers not heard from will change the ratio.

If that is true, the Republicans may not be enjoying quite so large a margin as they have in recent elections. They had 60 per cent of the editors behind them in 1936, 66 in 1940, 60 in 1944, 65 in 1948, 67 in 1952, and 62.3 in 1956.

Which suggests that the public does much of its own thinking. The Democrats actually have the majority party.

HOSTAGES GALORE

What a time to start a war, if we were an aggressive nation. New York is swarming with dictatorial leaders who make a pretense of social freedom with their tint of red. Placed under custody they might serve to keep enemy fire at bay while we negotiate or attacked.

It suggests that the leaders of these nations are fully aware that we can be trusted. They have not the slightest fear and actually have the nerve to venture forth at will in our most crowded city.

Actually it is further proof that they do not fully understand the temper of our democratic public. They are so vain as to think the people of the world love them for their alleged efforts to "free" the "enslaved".

Tell that to the man with electric appliances in his kitchen and laundry, and an eye for that second car he expects to put in his driveway.

ATTENTION HOLLYWOOD

The nation's editors are doing a better job for Khrushchev than the best publicity experts can manage for leading actors. The pay-off was heard on the radio

Tuesday evening when it was reported that a former Russian woman had approached Khrushchev on a sidewalk in New York and had been promised that he would try to contact her daughter for her.

Now there is sob stuff of the worst kind, and the editors used it, the same ones who rant and pull their hair over the communist line. This is the kind of unofficial action which we say should be kept off the press wires and the front pages. It is the kind of unadulterated tripe which counteracts the officially spoken insults, and the refusals to cooperate, in the minds of the listening and reading public.

If the press reports it, much of the public believes it. If this man can be so kind, some will reason, perhaps he isn't as bad as official statements make him.

But, remember, only the official actions count. The rare, isolated humane gestures we so readily report can be window dressing, and any official in Khrushchev's position would be a fool to respond otherwise in such a situation.

Let us not forget the millions enslaved while Khrushchev basks in the light of what may or may not be one highly publicized little kindness that suggests individual freedom. The Soviet leader's best press agent is the gullible American editor who undermines his own line of attack.

Economic Double Talk

By Inez Robb

When I tire of trying to figure out who's on first in the Congo, I change pace by wondering whatever became of the multitude of economic writers and financial experts who said we would all be as rich as kings in the 'sixties.

As 1959 ended, the soothsayers were predicting a new Golconda in the decade ahead. The great increase in the U. S. population was to create a constantly rising demand for everything from diapers to diamonds. We were going to boom, boom, boom down the decade like a brass drum in a military band.

I could hardly wait for the 'sixties and all that loose money with a free scoop shovel to every customer! I had steeled myself to wash down the corned beef and cabbage with champagne and to wear my share of the sables and like 'em.

Of course, it doesn't do to be too impatient, and 1960 is not quite nine months old. Still and all, there is no wishing well in my back yard. And even an occasional glance at the stock market reports convinces anyone that the market isn't hitting the daily double as constantly as predicted a year ago.

But it isn't "steel slump" or "auto glut" or even "pockets of unemployment," on top of the stock market, that have roused me from my rosy dreams of riches. The alarm clock in this instance is a two-word question encountered in the weekly bulletin of a business and market analyzer for which Chez Robb pays $65 annually.

"Recession Ahead?" asks this bulletin of the customer who thought he was paying his $65 annually to get the answers.

Under this pointed question, the bulletin follows with two paragraphs. But bless me if I can figure out whether they say "Yes," "No" or "Maybe"! Or all three.

Throughout the years, I have noted that no writers in the world are as cagey as financial scriveners. They must operate under a union or fraternal oath that pledges them to ambiguity. They are always subject to more interpretations than Nostradamus.

Let me cite the second paragraph under the rude query "Recession Ahead?" It reads:

"Quite a few (economists) commented that we are merely coasting along with high income and productivity but lacking any real growth. Because of the normal fall pickup, the cyclical trend will be hard to pinpoint during the next few months. By early 1961, it should become clearer whether the economy is going to pick up momentum or go into reverse."

This is a splendid example of the "It will or it won't" school of financial interpretation, or "It may, or, again, it may not" type of prognostication. Sometimes, it is simply known as the spread-eagle system. At all odds, it covers every contingency. No matter what happens, marketwise, the above writer has covered all fronts and all exits. If the market goes up, down, sideways or rests on a plateau, he can always say -- and justifiably -- "It told you so."

Who can dispute it? Because, come right down to it, what has he said? (For that $65 a year, I ought to be allowed one $64 question.) He has committed himself to nuttin'. Nor did he in the preceding paragraph where he noted "there was some division between those holding that we are already having a recession and those who think a mild shakeout is ahead."

At least on the financial page, the customer is privileged, in fine democratic fashion, to pay his money and to take his choice. It's sort of caveat emptor with a vengeance.

But that's the way the fortune cookie crumbles so far in 1960. The financial witch doctors still have nine years in which to make good with every man a king, and they probably will with all bets hedged in octagonal prose.

TELEVISION & RADIO

By John Crosby

ONE MAN NETWORK

Just when we all thought radio networks were going out of business, along comes a fellow who is making a business -- and a good one -- out of bringing together radio networks. His name is Jerry Johnston and it all started over football. About four years ago, Johnston left the advertising agency he was working for to open his own office.

"I had been working on a football show at the agency he continued on my own," he explained. "What I did was find a number of radio stations interested in certain football games, and I strung them together into a short of network. We started with football -- now we've got grand opera.

"What always bothered me when you went to a network to buy time, was that you got stuck with stations in cities you didn't want and you didn't always get into cities you did want. If you wanted Louisville and the network didn't have a station there, you didn't get in. So we put together our own network. We buy time on 100 stations of our choice, not the network's choice. We plan on covering 98 per cent of the United States."

Johnston points out that the kind of program he puts on his made-to-order network must have substance. "It's got to be something no other station in the area can offer. Otherwise, why would people listen? It's got to be good -- opera, sports, symphony -- the sort of thing people have strong feelings for. This has a lot of advantages because the stations then won't DB (delay broadcasts) it because of an azalea festival. Also, they promote the show because they wanted it in the first place.

"What's more, we can buy any amount of time we want to buy. We got Texaco as an account. The opera was having trouble on the networks. The stations would DB it at the most ridiculous time -- nine in the morning on Sundays or eleven at night. Even opera lovers wouldn't listen at those hours. Most of the time it wasn't live in lots of cities. The stations were simply unable to carry programs live when the network wanted them to. Seventy per cent of the broadcasts were at the darndest times you ever heard. We didn't have any trouble selling the opera either. Set up an opera network.

"If you must know, the same thing applies to television. But in television it gets into a billion dollar business. We'll get into television, too, one day, but we have to walk before we run."

Johnston admitted that setting up his own network was a little more expensive than buying time on an existing network, but the client gets what he wants and what he pays for. "The audience of the opera is a very loyal one. The stations which bought the opera are proud of it, and they promote it, whereas the affiliates that once carried opera weren't interested at all. It wasn't convenient for them. Since I have set up the Texaco Metropolitan Opera network, I've had eight outfits get in touch with me to find out what we can do for them. Got one of those calls this morning."

Already Johnston is beginning to explore other avenues besides opera and sports.

"Soap operas are going off the air and there's a whole built-in audience waiting for the," he says wonderingly. "Fifteen stations have called me to say they are interested in daytime serials and what can I do for them. I'd be interested in doing something in that line if it were any good. I'm interested in that program where they dramatize best sellers."

"But music is the thing most other sponsors are interested in. They'd be interested in good radio drama, too, I bet. We could have a rotating program with the various leading symphonies, throughout the country. Then we could make up our own orchestra and broadcast from Carnegie Hall. Music is the common denominator. Notes are the same in Russia or in America, and everybody loves the same ones. All the letters to the Metropolitan Opera Co. say how much they appreciate it. Never mind about ratings."

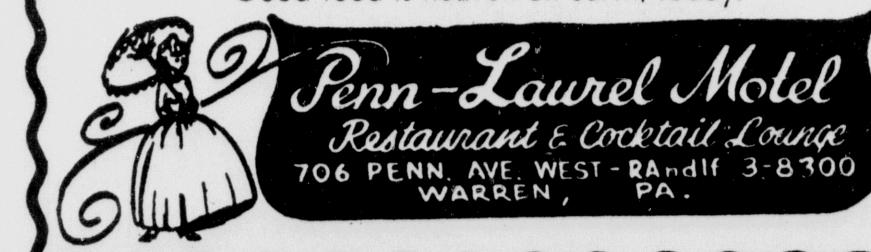

Just when everyone was saying that radio networks were finished, too.

ALGEBRA HAS ITS BIGGEST CLASSROOM

Following is the text of an NBC Television Network ad appearing in the Sept. 17 issue of Saturday Review:

"It's 6:30 in the morning. The program: Continental Classroom on the NBC Television Network.

The course: Contemporary Mathematics. And the teachers: Dr. John L. Kelley of the University of California at Berkeley, and Dr. Julius Hlavaty of the DeWitt Clinton High School in New York City.

Throughout the nation over two hundred colleges and universities are offering academic credit for this course. Students seeking credit watch three times a week. Teachers who want credit watch five.

The attendance: an estimated one million college students, mathematics teachers and math amateurs.

Continental Classroom is now in its third year on the NBC Television Network. It was started in 1958 to alleviate the critical need for trained scientific manpower, so vital to the continued security and growth of the United States and the future of the free world.

Now, in 1960-61, Continental Classroom directs itself to the teaching of mathematics, the common basis for scientific and technological progress. Its new course, Contemporary Mathematics, is divided into two semesters. Modern Algebra is now being taught and will be followed, next semester, by Probability and Statistics.

The objective: to strengthen the teaching of mathematics in American schools - decisively and quickly - and to encourage new numbers of students to undertake a career in mathematics.

Contemporary Mathematics is carried coast-to-coast by NBC, Monday through Friday, in color at 6:30 a. m. From 6:00 to 6:30 a. m. last year's popular Modern Chemistry is again being offered. Continental Classroom which has won every major award in its field, is made possible through an unique collaboration of education, industry and broadcasting. It is produced by the National Broadcasting Company in cooperation with the Conference Board of the Mathematical Sciences and Learning Resources Institute, and financed by grants from the Ford Foundation and the following seven industries: Bell Telephone System, E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., General Foods Fund, IBM Corp., Radio Corp. of America, Union Carbide Corp., and United States Steel.

FRED ALMOST MADE IT

Fred Paine, formerly of Warren, who earned a moment in the golf sun when he knocked off Billy Joe Patton in the national amateur championship, came within one match of earning an invitation to the Masters next year. All golfers who make the quarter finals in the national are invited to the Masters. Fred might have made it but he bumped into Deane Beman, who went on to win the title, and Beman was torrid.

Fred says the young golfers that are sprouting out of all corners are hot, sponsored, unconcerned about anything but golf because of their financial freedom, and they can lace the ball straight down the middle for 300 yards.

SPORT TREND

The only sport that is moving backward in Pennsylvania is baseball. At least this is true in high school. Four years ago 733 high schools had baseball teams. This year it had dropped to 687.

Every other sport has grown. Even basketball and football, which are old staples and it would seem impossible to find more schools for them, have increased. Basketball was played in 1,023 schools away back in 1954. Today it is played in 1,056. Football in the same period increased from 714 schools to 795.

Track is the next most prevalent sport. It has moved from 449 schools six years ago to 532 today. There has been an amazing increase in cross country running. Six years ago 67 high schools had teams. Today there are 121 cross country hordes trotting over hill and dale.

The big jump has been enjoyed by wrestling which has more than doubled from its 121 schools in 1954 to 287 today. Even volleyball is gaining its place, with 149 schools compared with 87 six years back.

Swimming would be one of the big ones if it were not for the lack of facilities. If schools had pools in their buildings the most healthful sport there is could be enjoyed by the entire student body and many lives would be saved in later years. Even with its restricted facilities, swimming has 73 schools with teams.

Six years ago it was a competitive sport in 57.

Tennis also is climbing. It has moved from 57 to 95 high school teams. Golf is going big. It is played by 139 high schools,

The 1961 Ford Falcon, most successful new car in history, features a new convex-shaped aluminum grille and new optional, 101-horsepower engine, but preserves the styling, maneuverability, interior roominess and 23.7-cubic-foot luggage capacity of the 1960 model. Shown above is the 1961 Falcon Fordor Sedan. Continuing its proven economy reputation, the 1961 Falcon will deliver up to 30 miles per gallon on regular grade fuel, goes 4,000 miles between oil changes, and introduces new and longer lasting bright trim and underbody parts, including a double-wrapped aluminized muffler.

an increase from its 85 teams in 1954.

A surprising sport also is soccer. It is gaining in many areas and today 121 high schools in Pennsylvania have teams. But it also was reasonably strong six years ago when it had 113 teams.

The smallest number of teams is the 51 who shoot rifles competitively. However, this is an increase from the 34 of 1954, and again facilities and locality play a big part in its popularity and availability.

The trend is obvious. Even among the young people there is a wide interest in sports. At one time only those who were built for rugged football or could handle a basketball or baseball were given much attention in high school. Today the boys and girls can earn their letters in a wider choice of games, many of which have far more lasting benefits than the so-called major sports.

The story of baseball sadly is true all the way up the line.

However, it is far from a dead one and many towns have hot stove or little leagues that provide more diamond action for the boys than does a high school team. Warren is an outstanding example of this with over 800 boys playing ball, and the county is beginning to double that number.

There also are more young people, the schools are larger, and there must be more variety to accommodate all who want to compete. It is a natural and healthy trend if we make the most of it with the best of facilities for the greatest number.

The provision of facilities should involve more than those who are good enough to "make the team", even if the number of those teams is growing. Body-building should parallel character and mind-development, and, in fact, when done right, augments them.

The recent defeat of Warren by Franklin on the football field, done to a wallop figure of 41 to 0, can tell us much about our sports program. These things will happen in sports, even to the best of teams. But they also can be a measure.

Does the licking mean our sports program is sadly lacking in quality? Does it mean we happen to have an off-season in respect to material? Is Franklin's sports department superior to ours? Did we just have an off-day and a good Franklin team took advantage of it?

But most important in regards to the development of manhood, how will these beaten boys react? The games to come will tell.

Down through the years there has been much said locally about learning to lose. We apparently have some boys who now have that opportunity. But we contend that we also must learn to win. That involves more than skill. It includes the will to win, the ability to come back after defeat, and the poise of a gracious winner.

Sport is growing. We must grow with it or it is a complete waste of equipment, time, and energy.

AREA CONTESTS: KNIGHTS IN ACTION.

The four Warren area football teams will swing into action again this coming week end with the Northern Area Knights joining the gridiron parade. Warren and Sheffield begin the activity Friday evening as the Dragons journey to Titusville and the Wolverines hit the road to St. Marys. In the remaining game the Youngsville Eagles and the Knights will square off at the Youngsville athletic field on Saturday afternoon.

Northern Area must begin anew after a very successful 1959 campaign in which the Knights went undefeated in conference play. Only two lettermen return from the '59 squad, halfbacks Denny Owens and Al Ludwick, NA having lost seventeen seniors from the undefeated team. Heading the coaching staff of Eisenhower High is Norge Luvison, and he will be aided by Fred Bauer, the assistant coach, and John Lassinger and John Nesse, the junior high mentors.

The Eagles have one win and one tie under their belts for the inter-county scrap. In the season's opener they whipped Smethport, 38-26, and journeyed to Saegertown last week to battle to a 12-12 deadlock.

Coach Lou DeBubies has his Sheffield Wolverines riding at a very high pitch, having tucked away two victories in the very young 1960 season. Their latest triumphant effort was a solid 26-0 thumping of the Johnsonburg eleven, a team which could have given the Wolverines a very tough battle. St. Marys has yet to hit paydirt this season as they were trounced by a powerful Kane eleven, 25-0 last Saturday. The game is probably a toss-up, but the Wolverines may hold the edge on the strength of their two previous impressive wins.

SHEFFIELD halfback Jeff Kifer was stopped on the 42-yard line in this action on Memorial Field in Sheffield last Saturday. The county eleven upset Johnsonburg 26-0 in the grid contest.

At Carter field in Titusville two teams met that were the hapless victims of terrific shelling last week end. The local Blue and White team must try to prove once more that their opening win over the Corry Beavers by a 13-7 score was not a fluke happening. Certainly their 41-0 loss to the Franklin Knights impressed no one, but if they can rebound to dump the Rockets, the fans will be with them once again. Coach Weights has had Titusville scouted, and has discussed their techniques in "skull" sessions this week with the players.

Not very much could be gained in the way of information in the Titusville-Grove City game last week for the Grovers swamped the Rockets, 26-0. Grove City has a solid team and dominated that game from start to finish. The Titusville lads have, however, tasted of the victory dish, having beaten Section Two rival, Oil City, by a 20-13 tally in those teams' opener two weeks ago. Oil City again displayed very little strength in its second outing, losing to the Corry Beavers, 31-6.

BOWHUNTERS HOLD MEET

The Mohican Bowhunters have been quite active the past few days, having participated in a deer silhouette shoot at Meadville on Sunday and in a night shoot at the Gern Hill range Monday. Following is a list of the results of the two meets.

MAJOR FEARS B. U.

SYRACUSE -- The betting is about 50-1 to Syracuse, national college football champion, will survive the impact of Boston University in Archbold Stadium Saturday and continue through its eighteenth successive defeatless game. The Orange won ten in a row last year and was voted the nation's best team. The previous year it won seven straight after losing 14-13 to Holy Cross in the second game of the schedule.

We understand that Major Ben Schwartzwalder and the scouts he sent to Penn State last week to calculate the prowess of B. U. and the Nittany Lions Orange enemy of Sept. 15, have been telling the Syracusans horror stories about the Boston Terriers.

They are big and strong. They might have made it an even game if they hadn't had a pass intercepted when they were marching on the State citadel in the first period. Yes, State got twenty points on them in the first half but couldn't score in the second. They have fine running backs and a good passer.

Everybody in Syracuse except Major Schwartzwalder thinks Major Schwartzwalder's forces are going to blow down the opposition the way it did last year. He is mortally afraid that this team will become convinced of its own greatness and fall on its face before it has a chance to show it. So who are we to say there is no harm in Boston University?

ROBS SECOND

Except for both first team tackles, one end, one guard, one halfback, and an able clutch of second team performers, Syracuse has virtually the same manpower it had last year, reinforced by some good sophomores and some varsity players who were out of action last year like Bob Thomas, 1958 quarterback; Dave Baker, 1958 end; and Lou Mautino, 1957 tackle.

As things stand the first team line probably is the equal of that of last year but in putting it together with elements from last year's rugged second line, Coach Schwartzwalder undoubtedly had taken some of the wallop out of the second unit.

In a scrimmage we saw the other day the first backfield, comprising All-America Ernie Davis, left half; Mark Weber, right half; Art Baker, full; and Dave Sarette, quarter, ripping off the unbalanced T plays just as it did last fall.

BIG ART TOP MAN

Since we saw the team scrimmage the first backfield has been broken up by an injury to Weber. He had an operation in January for a ruptured cartilage in his right knee and darned if he didn't stretch the ligaments in his left, or good, knee in scrimmage the other day.

The doctors say he'll be out half the season but he swears he'll be back for the Penn State game (Oct. 15). In the meantime Schwartzwalder has shifted Pete Brokaw from second-string left halfback to first string right. Peter isn't any genius on the defense which means that Dick Easterly, second-string quarter, will have to stand by to play for him on the defense. Easterly will also have to play defense for John Mackey, 205-pound, second-string right half back from Long Island, who also has a penchant for chasing shadows.

Dave Sarette, the great Syracuse quarterback, is as good a defensive man as you'd want but Schwartzwalder likes to get him out of the game for rest and meditation when the other team has the ball. So he plans to replace him with Whitey Reimer.

The only trouble with these plans is that a team like Syracuse is likely to get the ball back in one series of downs which will make it necessary for the gallant Major to play successive wild cards in furious succession.

Syracuse, of course, plays unbalanced line T ball and never splits an end. The boys picked Ernie Davis, left halfback, for All-America, but to us Art Baker, fullback, buckler, tackler, and blocker, is the team's greatest player.

Your Ranger Forest

By Larry Stotz

A highlight of the Fifth World Forestry Congress at Seattle, Washington, was the planting of an International Friendship Grove on the Campus Parkway of the University of Washington.

A smartly uniformed Marine Band from El Toro, California, led the procession to the planting site where trees representing 65 nations had already been set out, but awaited the final shovelfuls of earth required to complete the planting job. Behind the band marched heads of delegations each flanked by a Girl Scout or a Campfire Girl carrying a shovel, and a Boy Scout carrying the flag of the delegate's country. After each delegate had reached the location of his country's tree he stopped and awaited the roll call of Nations. A light breeze unfurled the flags until they formed a rippling sea of color.

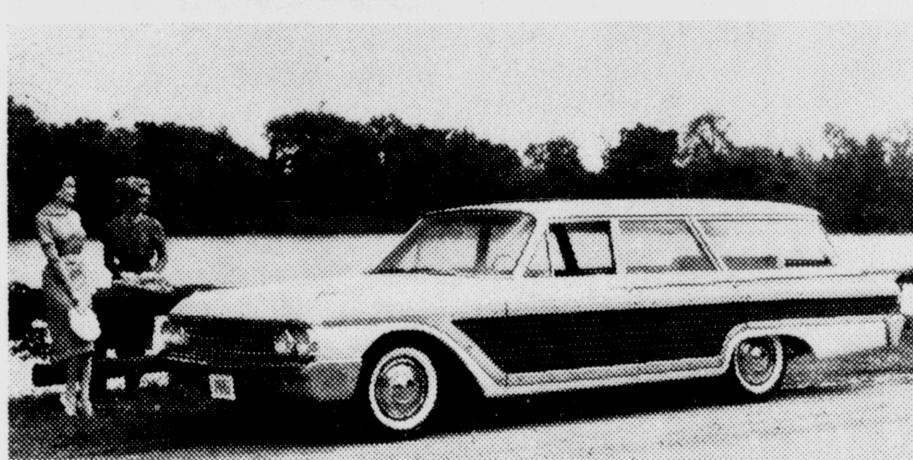

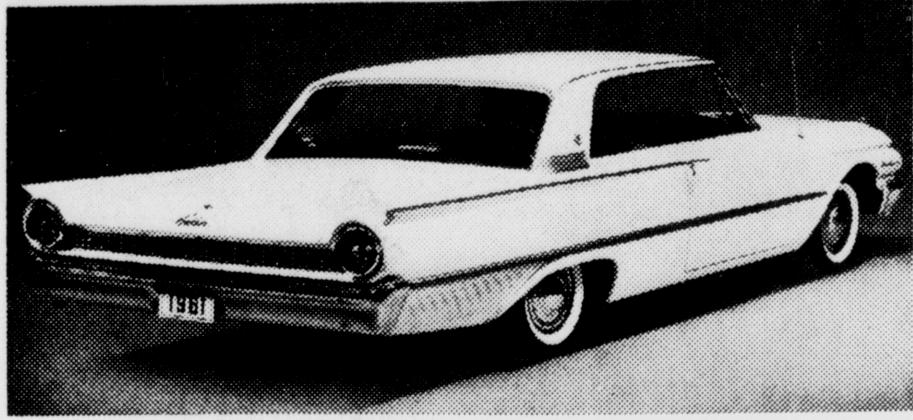

Such exotic and far-away places as Burma, Cameroun, Gabon, Ghana, Iran, Ivory Coast, Malaya, Nepal, Sudan and Viet-Nam were represented among the 65 nations taking part in the ceremony.

The delegate from Pakistan planted a Himalaya Chestnut tree while Richard McArdle, Chief of the U.S. Forest Service and President of the Fifth World Forestry Congress, planted a Douglas fir as the United States' contribution to the Peace Grove.

Foreign students at the University of Washington unveiled a dedicatory plaque and raised the United Nations flag as the grand climax of the morning's program, which concluded with a prayer for peace and friendship.

As a symbol of lasting peace and friendship among peoples of the world I can think of nothing more fitting than a grove of trees. The wreath of flowers placed upon a warrior's tomb quickly withers. The heroic statue of bronze is cold and lifeless, but a tree renews its life each spring and forms a lasting link between the living and the dead.

Compared to man's brief life span on earth, some species of trees approach immortality. The

The 1961 Ford Galaxie Club Victoria (top), a new model in the Ford line that will be introduced to the public on September 29, features the crisp, fresh appearance that earned a gold medal from an international fashion authority for "functional expression of classic beauty." Ford's station wagon series includes the nine-passenger Country Squire (bottom) and introduces another new model—a six-passenger version of the Country Squire. The new Ford station wagons have a roll-down tailgate window, and the tailgate itself is seven inches wider than in 1960. All 1961 Fords feature new dimensions for greater maneuverability and such major engineering improvements as 30,000-mile lubrication, heavier, self-adjusting brakes, and longer-lasting bright trim and underbody parts.

Douglas fir tree, symbolizing the United States at the Friendship Grove, has a short life span compared to the giant redwood or the 4,000 year-old bristlecone pine of California. But seven centuries of growth are not unusual for this noble tree which may reach heights of 300 feet.

If peace and international friendship can be kept alive during the normal life span of a Douglas fir tree most of the problems that today plague the forests of the world can be solved -- for the science of forestry is still in its infancy.

Shifting cultivation, or nomadic agriculture, which has for centuries destroyed valuable forests in the tropics and mountainous parts of Asia, will have to be replaced by a permanent form of agriculture.

Plantations of quick growing tree species -- comparable to selected strains of hybrids in crop cultivation -- may some day replace much of the existing forest in many parts of the world, and yield tree, five, or ten times the volumes produced per acre from today's natural forests.

Primitive logging methods in under-developed countries will have to give way to modern mechanization if presently inaccessible forest areas are to contribute their full share to the local economy and a rising standard of living.

A break-through in solving the chemical enigma of lignin, which forms 30 per cent of the dry weight of wood, will release tremendous amounts of a versatile raw material that now goes to waste.

The staggering losses by insects, disease and wildlife that now occur in the forests of the world will be reduced significantly through new control techniques developed in the field and in the laboratory.

Full use of all kinds of trees, from presently unnamed tropical species to those in our own hemisphere that are now regarded as inferior, will be necessary in the future if the needs of an expanding population are to be met.

Barren places of the world -- once heavily forested and still capable of growing trees -- will have to be planted, and overgrazing of livestock, especially the goat, eliminated.

When all of these things have been accomplished the International Friendship Grove will become a living symbol of peace and cooperation among nations as men of all races and cultures work together with nature to build a better world through the wise use of natural resources.

MEN'S GOLF

Putts, as few as possible of them, were king in the weekly men's day competition at the Conewango Valley Country Club yesterday. Dr. Yerg's 10 putts for nine holes topped all flights and gave him first place in the second flight. Hal Conarro had 41 for low gross in that flight.

Milt Dahler and Bob Blair had 14 and Bill Rice tied with John Carter at 38 blows for first flight tops. Joe Goblinger sank 14 putts and a 44 for Howie Colt and Kerm Vicander tied them for low gross in the third.

In the fourth it was Bill Walker with 11 putts and Lou Wanner with a 46. In the fifth, Jake Connely and Don Conaway had 15 putts and Lyle Knapp and John Haggerty shot 47.

ATTENTION GOLFERS

The Babe Didrickson Zaharias Cancer Benefit Golf Tournament, sponsored annually by the Warren County Chapter of the American Cancer Society, will get under way promptly at 8 a.m. on the Kinzua Valley Golf Course this Sunday. Chairman of the Tourney, Danny Lord, said Thursday evening that anyone not having their entry blanks in Friday may contact either George Eberhardt or himself before Sunday for entry into the worthwhile event. The fee for golfing is $5.

After 10 a.m. on the day of the tourney, those wishing to compete must contact the chairman at the Kinzua Valley course, located just north of Kinzua.

Prizes will be awarded to all first, second, and third place winners in the four-flight tournament, plus a number of special prizes. First place prize in each flight is a "Sword of Hope" trophy, given by the Cancer Society.

LET'S TALK SPORTS

BEAR DAMAGE. A resident in the Cobham Park district has complained to the Pennsylvania Game Commission of extensive property damage in his area . . . and sure enough, the culprit was a bear. Earlier this week U. Americanus made off with a pig from his home, and Dave Titus, head game protector in this area, has set a trap for the bruin. First thing to enter the baited confine . . . a dog.

STRANGE GOLF COURSE. Last week-end's visitors to the Kinzua Valley Golf Course were certainly perplexed, including all golfers and duffers. Vandals in that area had taken all the flags from the pins, making long drives to the greens somewhat difficult. Sheriff Allen is currently conducting an investigation of the prank.

PAT MADDEN, swimming coach at the CVCC for the past few summers and a student at Slippery Rock, has begun workouts for the coming season. "The Rock" posted an 11 and 1 record last season in dual competition and should fare well in the '60 - '61 campaign with its many returning lettermen. Their first dual engagement is with Westminster on Dec. 3.

IMPRESSIVE RECORD. Softball fans in the area, well-acquainted with the teams in the tri-state area, might be interested to learn that the New Castle Eagles, who for years have been 1959 WINNERS. Pictured here is the foursome that won the Babe Didrickson Zaharias Cancer Benefit golf tourney in 1959. The same event is being held this year on this coming Sunday, and until press time this morning sixty area golfers had registered to participate.

Entry blanks may be obtained at the New Yorker, the Driving range in Starbrick, the Kinzua Valley Golf Course, or by calling RA 3-2642.

SOUTHWESTERN WHIPS WARREN JAYVEES, 14 TO 0

Wednesday evening on War Memorial field the Warren high jayvees were handed their second straight defeat of the season when they lost to Southwestern, 14 to 0. The charges of Wally and Jim Jewell will attempt to hit the victory trail on this coming Monday when the Titusville Rockets send their junior varsity to Warren. Game time is 4 p.m.

Southwestern hit paydirt first in the second quarter when, after a sustained drive of about 60 yards, Bud Herron cracked over on a quick opener from three yards out. A Herron-to-Bogart aerial was good for the PAT.

The visitors added their final points in the fourth frame when Warren was forced to punt from behind their own goal line. The ball was partially blocked, and Southwestern gained possession on the Warren two. From there quarterback Tom Mazzone barreled in on a sneak play, and Siegel added the point after with a plunge.

Warren may have knotted the count earlier in the game when the baby Dragons drove inside the Southwestern 10 on line plunges. With the score reading 7 to 0, and on a fourth-and-two situation, the locals came up with a complex double reverse that set them back eight yards and nullified the effort. After that they never posed any serious threat to the Southwestern lead.
